

Analytics Survey: The Emerging Role of the Legal Data Scientist

By LawVision on December 10, 2018

We invite you to participate in the 2018 law firm analytics survey.

Inspired by ILTA's recent 2018 technology report which showed growth of analytics within firms that surpasses that of security staff. It is clear, law firms are experimenting with analytics, ranging in sophistication and application.

In a joint research effort with Intapp, we are hoping to answer questions about the growth of law firm analytics, specifically, how are firms taking data into action? How are firms operationalizing insight to take it to the last mile? As firms begin to explore ways to accelerate use of data, how does your firm compare?

Why participate? This survey should only take about 10 minutes to complete. Participants will receive a copy of the final report as well as an invitation to a webinar reporting on the findings. The report will provide valuable industry trends on challenges and opportunities facing the modern law firm as well as how organizations are evolving their strategies to bring analytics into the firm's fabric.

Survey topic areas;

- Structure of analytics team and priorities
- Insight into best practices for analytics and data science at the firm
- Emerging trends in methodology and technology

This study is confidential and anonymous.
